NEW YORK, May 23.—The market was comparatively active to-day and stronger than for some time past. Sentiment was decidedly more cheerful, and considerable of the buying was attributed to important interests. There was somewhat of a built in business around the noon hour, but the firm tone was maintained and still further fractional advances were made in the afternoon when business again improved. The bond market was also strong and active, and it is probable that the strength in this quarter together with the fact that hare issues of bonds have been readily absorbed by investors of late, and has had much to do with the better feeling which has prevailed. The local traction issues were active and higher. In fact, the market for specialties was quite wide, but the general list also showed improvement throughout the day.

The London market was closed.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a deciline of 5 points. There were no cables to sway/sentiment either way, and while the weather reports over Sunday were generally favorable, there was a feeling of nervousness and hessitation. It was believed that the short interest had been considered that there was still a large short account in the summer months, and the report that one of the leading Southern built operators would be on the floor during the morning rendered shorts timid. There was no sign of built support at the opening, however, and shortly afterward there was a drive by the bears, uncovering some step-loss orders on the loss side and sent July down to 145, and was fluctuating the morning the market leader made his appearance on the floor and shorts of the timid class started covering with the result that prices went up about 10 points, or to 12,51 for July, in side of about fifteen minutes.

But it looked as though the bears were predicted the more easily frightened shorts, prices

LIQUOR'S USE ON DECLINE

Latest Figures Show Decided Falling Off in Use of Intoxicants in England.

STILL DRINKS A PLENTY

Some Interesting Figures From the Latest Publications-The Irishman Slandered.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.-Figures were presented in this correspondence some time ago, taken from official reports to the Department of Commerce and Labor, which showed the enormous increase in consumption of alcoholic liquors in France, and showed that there was all other countries, including the United States. The decrease in England was nearly fifty per cent. In the past decade. It was more than that in the United States. Recently there have been figures published which showed that drinking was on the increase in England, and alarmists have been calling on tem-and alarmists have been calling on temperance workers in that country to take steps to prevent the growth of the drink habit.

It would appear that there is no reason for alarm. Frank W. Mahin, United States consul at Nottingham, England, in a report just made to the Department of Commerce and Labor presents figures which show that there was an enormous falling off in the amount of spirits consumed in Great Britain and Ireland in 1933, as compared with 1992. The statistics were compiled for the London Times by Rev. Dawson Burns, D. D. SOME COMPARATIVE FIGURES.

The amount of British spirits consumed in 1992 was $23,785,447 gallons, costing $217.649,299; the cost of the spirits consumed in 1992 was $227,897,552.

The cost of other spirits consumed in 1993 was $24,290,759, and the total cost of other spirits consumed in 1992 was $450,902,820.

The total cost of all spirits consumed in 1993 was $24,509,372, while the cost of the loss of the partits consumed in 1993 was $24,609,372, while the cost of

The total cost of all spirits consumed in 1903 was $284,509.372, while the cost of all spirits drank in 1902 was $578,589.

In 1902 the beer drunk in Great Britain and Ireland amounted to $514,537,079, while the bar bill of the country for 1903 was only $610,233,837, a preity large amount to spend for that which was not a necessity, but a considerably smaller amount than in the preceding year.

The people of Great Britain and Ireland drunk 34,848,720 barrels of wine in 1903, coating $61,064,272. The cost of the wine drunk in 1902 was $67,222,988.

The amount of British cider, wines, etc., consumed in 1903 was $5,002,009 gallons, costing $7,290,750. The amount consumed in 1903 is not given, but the cost is stated at the same as for the last year. PORT OF WEST POINT, MAY 22, 1504.

Dr. Strong Says Panama Canal

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—Dr. Richard P. Strong, director of the biological laboratory at Manila, P. I., has a paper in the fourth annual report of the Phillipine Commission, about to be published by the Bureau of Insular Affairs, showing, how the Panama Canal pay become a factor in introducing velous persons as factor in introducing velous persons persons as factor in introducing velous persons person fairs, showing, how the Panama Canal may become a factor in introducing yellow fever into our eastern possessions and the entire Orient.

He shows that the Hawaiian Islands, Guam, and the Philippines, will be exposed to the importation of cases of yellow fever or of infected stegomyla fasciata (the mosquito that carries the fever) unless the disease can be banished from Panama.

The disease often follows the lines of commercial maritime travel and many instances are on record of the introduction of the disease by vessels into hitherto uninfected regions.

sumed in 1992 is not given, but the cost is stated at the same as for the last year.

To summarize The total amount paid for spirits in 1992 was $284,690,372. The total amount paid in 1993 was $270,340,049. The total cost of the beer, wine and cider drunk in 1993 was $375,597,859. The cost in 1992 was $589,059,817.

The total cost of the spirits, beer, wine and cider drunk in 1992 was $373,599,199. The total cost of the spirits, beer, wine and cider drunk in 1992 was $373,599,199. The total bar bill of 1903 was $348,807,098.

A SUBSTANTIAL DECLINE.

The foregoing figures show a substantial decline of about $25,090,000 in the amount paid for drink in 1903. No reason, therefore, is suggested in the report of the consul, but it is known that business was very dull in all lines in Great Britain last year, and it is probable that the decline in drinking was largely due to the depression in trade. Of course, it is possible that the activity of temperance workers, which is greater now than at any period in the history of the world, probably, may have had more to do with the increase in sobriety than appears.

THE COTTON MARKET (By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, May 23.—There was greater excitement connected with wider fluctuations in to-day's cotton market than has been experienced for the yast soveral weeks. From the low point, 12.62, for July during the early trading, the price shot upwards shortly after the noon hour to 13.12 on active covering and buils' support. Following this advance of half a cent, it ruled more or less fregular. At the lowest, the general list showed a net loss or eleven to twenty-points. At the best it was four to twenty-nine points net higher, the new crop ruling relatively heavy under good weather accounts. The market closed fairly steady under room selling at a net gain of seventeen points to a decline of eight points. Sales were estimated at 400,000 bales.

BALTIMORE, May 25.—Rev. Frederick Gibsón, D. D., rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, and one of the oldest and most prominent Episcopal clergymen in the Diocese of Maryland, died last night He was seventy-seven years old, a native of Baltimore, a graduate of St. James College and was ordained a deacon and ordained a priest by Bishop Whittingham in 1856.

For seventeen years he was assistant con and ordained a priest by Bisnop Whittingham in 1855.

For seventeen years he was assistant priest at St. Luke's Church, the services in which were noted for high ritual. Dr. Gibson was a learned theologian, and an authority on liturgics. He rendered valuable assistance to the Prayer-Book Revision Committee of the General Convention of the American Church, and as a reward for his services was voted a handsome copy of the revised prayer book, an homor not conferred upon another individual.

He was also co-author of a standard work on liturgies. In all church assemblages his advice and knowledge were sought on matters of doctrine and church nolities. Dr. Gibson was rector of St. George's twenty years. He is survived by his wife, a son and a daughter.

SANTA FE, N. M., May 23.—In excavating the bed of the Zuni River for a dam site quite a number of well preserved mastodon tusks and bones were found. Some of the latter were ribs 14 fect in length. These have been put aside, and the Smithsonian Institution has been informed of the finds.

Three heads of extinct animals were discovered. They are about two feet in length and 15 inches in width. The teeth are well preserved. The heads have two straight horns, from 16 to 20 inches long. The position of the eye sockets under the horns makes it probable that the animal could look sideways and backward, as they are situated on the
